

Science of Golf Tournament

Science is behind many everyday activities, including golf! From high-tech engineering that goes into crafting clubs, to human biology and fitness research that's behind a golfer's swing,

Science is at the core of our world.

At YSI, we inspire an enthusiasm for science by connecting kids with hands-on science in nature-based settings. We provide an interactive exploration of the physical, life and social sciences for more than 30,000 student each year. But in Silicon Valley, almost half our students are failing science, so there's still a lot of work to do.

Thank you for supporting YSI by participating in today's tournament.
